

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Doors Open Denver Features Award Winning 4240 Architecture Studio

Denver, CO, March 19, 2010-

4240 Architecture will open its doors to the public on April 17th and 18th from 10am-4pm. Their studio, located at 3003 Larimer Street, has received both a Workspace Award from the Colorado Business Committee for the Arts and an AIA Denver Honor Award for Built Interiors.

Doors Open Denver
Features Award Winning
4240 Architecture Studio

“As an adaptive reuse of an existing steel foundry into a design studio, this project is notable not only for its esthetic energy and idyllic work place, but for the holistic approach to sustainability taken by creators and users alike.” – 2009 AIA Denver Award Jurors

Doors Open Denver is a FREE 2-day event celebrating architecture and design. 2010 is the sixth year of this free, city-wide annual weekend event celebrating Denver’s built environment and this year’s theme is “Denver ReDux/Denver ReDo: Buildings With a Second Life.” The event is designed to create access, awareness and excitement about adaptive reuse and good design by welcoming a wide audience into distinctive examples of architecture, engineering and design, both historic and modern. For more information on all of the locations featured this year please visit Doors Open Denver online at www.DenverGov.org/DoorsOpenDenver.

Background: 4240 Architecture is an award-winning team of architects and planners. 4240 designs sustainable, high performance buildings, community frameworks, and spaces ranging from entire neighborhoods, resorts, public and commercial architecture to interiors and private homes. Established in 2003, the firm’s studios in Chicago [located at 42° latitude] and Denver [located at 40° latitude] comprise “4240.” The firm is an effective, visionary team of professionals who are equally fluent in designing for urban settings and high-mountain properties – and for just about every context in between.

For more information regarding this event please contact Marla Digitale at 4240@4240arch.com or 303.292.3388.

###