As a project designer and coordinator with 10 years of experience, Andy has a background in a variety of project types and scales. He has overseen projects with 4240 ranging from intimate, residential designs to large, complex mixed-use developments and is particularly interested in leading-edge construction techniques and classical graphic representation. As a LEED accredited professional, Andy has participated in the design of LEED-certified projects.

While pursuing his Bachelor of Architecture degree, Andy studied extensively in Europe, focusing on analysis of urban spaces and Romanesque and Baroque architecture. He also draws on influences including the American Arts & Crafts movement and Shaker design, both of which find their way into the furniture he designs and builds.
